

Policies and Procedures Support

Strong policies and procedures can protect both the charity and you as trustees, ensure responsibilities are fulfilled, and help to secure funding.

Miners' welfare charities may not have the necessary policies and procedures in place, or may struggle to keep them up to date. This can bring risks to your service delivery, and could mean your charity is not compliant with its obligations.

It could also impact on your ability to apply for funding, with many grant givers now expecting charities to have key policies in place.

Turn over to find out more about how we support your charity

Community Welfare Service

THE COAL MINING CHARITY

How we support your charity

Developing essential policies – we help identify the policies your charity needs, offering guidance on a range of policies including safeguarding, equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI), and environmental responsibility.

Policy reviews and compliance checks – our team can review your existing policies, providing feedback and recommendations to ensure they meet best practice and funding requirements.

Access to policy templates and toolkits – we provide ready-to-use templates, toolkits, and self-assessment checklists, making it easier to create and update policies.

Training and ongoing support – we offer training and practical guidance to help trustees and staff understand their responsibilities, how to implement policies effectively, and stay compliant.

Why CISWO?

We can help you put policies in place that are specific to your charity and service delivery. We can also help you to understand your roles and responsibilities within those policies, helping you to be compliant and minimise risk. We can advise on what funders will require as part of our grant support service, supporting the long-term sustainability and success of your charity.

Further information

For further information or to discuss your training needs, contact your regional development manager or visit our website: ciswo.org.uk

THE COAL MINING CHARITY

01709 728 115